GAS IN THIS CITY IS OFF FOR AN HOUR; GASKET BLOWS OUT

City Without Gas and Electricity for An Hour — Many Will Tales Are Circulated But Relief Is Soon Given Citizens.

The blowing out of a gasket on a high pressure regulator at the Maysville Gas Company's measuring station in the city, caused the city to be cut off from its supply of gas for about an hour Monday morning and as the boilers of the electric light plant are heated by gas, the electric power was cut and street car service was suspended for that short period.

The gas supply was cut off in the city shortly after 6 o'clock Monday morning and shortly after 7 o'clock the gas was again coursing through the city's mains and everything was again in normal condition.

The trouble at the gas station was not serious and it was indeed fortunate that it happened in August instead of on a zero morning in the midst of winter.

People of Maysville can consider themselves quite fortunate as this is the first inconvenience caused by the gas supply in several years and the only inconvenience it caused was that a few late risers failed to get their hot coffee for breakfast.

EMPLOYMENT GIVEN TO MANY WHEN WORK ON SEWER BEGINS

Many Men Given Employment at Noon Monday and More Will Be Put To Work Tuesday Morning — Work Is To Be Rushed.

Following the announcement of Mayor Russell that the unemployed of this city would be given employment upon the beginning of the sewer building plan of the city Monday morning, local men now out of work made their arrangements to be on hand early Monday morning and at about 7 o'clock there were probably more than one hundred men on the job awaiting assignment.

It was necessary to break the macadam in Fourth street with a power driven plow, the men were not put to work immediately but about fifty of them were given employment at noon Monday and all of the others who desire to work will be put to work Tuesday morning, the work of breaking through the macadam street having been completed by that time.

Just as soon as the Fourth street sewer is completed, the men will be moved to the next sewer and this will continue until all of the four sewers advertised will be laid. It is expected that probably one hundred men or more will be given steady work, the weather permitting, for several weeks. This will put considerable money into circulation.

PELLEGRA MAY OCCUR IN ANY STATE.

The fact that 10,000 of our fellow citizens may die of pellagra before the year ends, and that a much larger number may be invalided for months, if not longer, should bring home a warning to all of us that we cannot afford to neglect nature's inexorable laws. To put it popularly, each of us is a walking laboratory, and we are ill, indisposed, or vigorous agreeably to the chemical reactions that take place within us.

Pellagra is evidence of nutritional derangement—proof that essential physical changes are not taking place within the body simply because of a deficiency of protein in the food eaten. In a kindred way, man suffers when his dietary lacks a sufficiency of vitamins; he may have beri-beri, or he may be stricken with scurvy. Again, the infant may be inflicted with rickets—i. e., faulty bone growth, owing to the absence of that element in its food which builds up the supporting framework.

While pellagra is at present virtually localized in the South, still it has occurred at times in pretty nearly every state in the Union. Climate has no direct bearing upon the appearance of the disease; the basic cause of the malady is a faulty diet. The appetite may be satisfied, yet the body will weaken and the nervous system become gravely deranged by reason of a shortage of protein in the food eaten. It is well for everybody to know this fact and to see to it that his self-contained laboratory be furnished daily with enough of each nutritive element to insure health.

A properly balanced diet should include, according to the U. S. Public Health service, cereals, starches, sweets, fats, fruits, green vegetables, lean meat, and a sufficient quantity of milk. And of all of these, the experts tell us that milk is the most important single food in balancing a diet and in preventing or curing pellagra. Where this cannot be had in the fresh or raw state, then a thoroughly satisfactory substitute is available in condensed or evaporated whole milk. Now we know why Dr. E. V. McCollum of John Hopkins University has persistently urged that each of us consume a quart of milk daily.

FIXING THE BLAME.

Here's where the farmer and the wrongfully abused retail grocer get the blame again from many a town and city housewife.

When Milady goes to the store and buys any of the various breakfast foods made out of wheat, she finds that the price is as high under $1 and $1.25 wheat as it was under $2 and $2.50 wheat. If, here and there, the price has been reduced a bit, it is because the neighborhood grocer has shaved his own profit almost to the vanishing point—he, himself, pays just as much as ever wholesale.

Cause? The cause is the millionaire millers of Minneapolis, who insist on war profits, when war and inflation have long passed.

Our keenly alert contemporary, the Fairmont (Minn.) "Sentinel," decided to look into the thing. First, the editor wrote to the editors of the Minneapolis daily papers and asked them for a report on why the millers continue to charge $0.50 a case for the breakfast foods which they make out of by-products of flour. The millionaire millers are a great power in Minneapolis, so "The Sentinel" received no replies.

Then "The Sentinel" called on the Minnesota State dairy and FOOD Commissioner for an answer. Inasmuch as the food of the two or three million people of Minnesota are not the concern of that state's food commissioner, he passed the buck to the commissioner of agriculture.

And so "The Sentinel's" insistent search for light goes on. There can be only one result: the millers will be shown up. Meanwhile, every decent American will applaud the Fairmont "Sentinel" in its effort to expose breeders of Bolshevism who sit in high places.

I'VE MOVED TO TOWN!

When a feller sells off his farmin' truck, an' goes to live in town, he's aetin' on the impulse that it's time to settle down. * * * The children's all growed up, you know, an' Mother needs a rest.—The farm ain't what it used to be—perhaps the change is best. * * * But still, there's little by-thoughts, that it seems is bound to come. * * * The painted cracker-box in town, don't seem to me like home! There ain't no mantel on the wall, nor fireplace anywhere. * * * The living-room is cluttered up with little, dinky chears. * * * And then we've got a foldin' bed, that's built to set on end—I may be its companion, but I'll never be its friend! And then, it seems so lonesome, without a batch of chores; the only bird I know of, is my neighbor, when he snores. * * * I want to tend a sow-an-pigs; I want to kill a snake! I want to hear my rooster crow of mornin's when I wake. * * * I'd feel a lot contenteder among the apple-trees, that's tryin' to squeeze myself, to fit apartments see such as these. * * * But I must try to hold the pill—that I have swallered down—an' try to act like other's that retired, moved to town!

A WORTHY ASPIRANT.

Representative F. W. Mr. Mondell has certainly earned the right to be an aspirant for promotion.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, — Contrasting the industrial depression of 1913-14 with the situation today the Republican Publicity Association has this to say in a statement issued recently:

"Following the inauguration of the Democratic administration in 1913 and the enactment of a Democratic tariff law, there was a period of decline in industry due largely to the fact that the United States was increasing its imports and decreasing its exports, giving more employment to foreign and less employment to American labor. There were long lines of unemployed getting free food from bread wagons and soup carts. President Wilson's explanation of the depression was that it was 'purely psychological.' There were 5,000,000 men out of employment.

"It is said that there are four million men out of employment now, but the Republicans make no claim that it is a 'purely psychological' condition. We admit that the present condition is due to a number of very definite causes, chiefly reaction from war conditions, but accentuate by the waste and extravagance of the Wilson regime, the heavy taxes necessitated by the extravagance, the deflation policy adopted by the Democratic Federal Reserve Board, the scrambling of the railroads by the McAdoo management, and the paternalistic policies pursued by the Democrats during all their eight years of rule.

"The present condition is not 'purely psychological' and neither was the depression that followed the adoption of a free trade policy in 1913. There was a very real cause for the depression that afflicted the country during the first two years of the Wilson administration — and relief came only when the war furnished this country with unprecedented markets at unprecedented prices, with no competition from abroad. The Democratic administration was not required to do anything to get the nation out of its difficulty then.

"There is also a real cause for present conditions, but apparently nothing but hard work, sound legislation, and wise economy on the part of the administration and the people will restore the country to prosperity."

There are said to be more Serbians in Pittsburgh and its immediate vicinity than there are in Belgrade, the capital and metropolis of Serbia.

An American business man traveling the Balkan nations must suffer endless inconveniences from customs and passport officials at every frontier. Not so with the "diplomats." Equipped with papers from the Lithuanian, Latvian, Estonian or White Russian government, they pass customs officials without any questions, and it is generally understood that much of the smuggling along the Baltic goes on in this manner.

FARMERS TO SEE RESULTS OF BEST FARM PRACTICES.

Extensive educational exhibits to show Kentucky farmers and their wives the advantages of different farm and home practices are being planned by the extension division of the College of Agriculture for the Kentucky State Fair which will be held September 12 to 17, according to recent announcements from the College. Approximately 15 different departments including those from farm engineering to home economics will contribute toward the exhibit which is expected to be one of the most extensive ever made by the division. As in former years the display will be made in the Grandstand building where the space allotted to the division has been doubled.

The exhibit will include displays showing how crop yields may be increased by drainage, how egg production may be increased by using good breeding stock in the poultry flock, how pure strains of seed and fertilizer may be used to raise crop yields and how county agent work is proving valuable to counties of the state. The horticultural department will make an exhibit showing the importance of a well-planned farm garden while the dairy department will attempt to show farmer the value of cooperative purebred bull associations.

Exhibits for farm women will be made by the home economics department and the home demonstration agent division. Displays will include those showing how girls are taught to make their own clothes in the courses given at the college and how farm women are learning clothing efficiency methods through the work being carried on by field agents from the college. Exhibits in sewing and canning will be made by different counties in connection with home demonstration agent work. These exhibits will compete for a number of prizes which have been offered.

In addition to the educational exhibits the college will enter nine fat steers and ten sheep in the open classes where they will compete with animals exhibited by breeds of the state. The list of animals will include six yearling steers, three calves, two aged Cheviot ewes, one yearling Cheviot ewe, one Cheviot ewe lamb, one yearling Shropshire ewe, four Southdown ewe lambs and one yearling Hampshire ram.

The Price car plunged into another standing at the curb, tearing off a wheel, and then sped wild for almost a block. Young Price was picked up unconscious and is in a serious condition.

New York.—Back to pre-war prices glory when Belasco presented her in for theater tickets! That's even more interesting news than the announcements of new productions—so some of us, at least. The reduction has already begun. From $3.50 to $3, the highest priced theaters have dropped to the old-time $2.50; while $2 will be the top price at many of the best houses, and the Hippodrome is back at $1 for matinee and $1.50 for evenings, best seats. Even first night prices are not being boosted above those schedules.

It's a dangerous thing to make one's art too lifelike. Pascal Madero, 151 West 105th street, wellnigh wrecked the Eden Musee out at Coney Island the other night when his place fell upon a waxen tableau called "The Dying Gamekeeper." The gamekeeper has been shot by a poacher as seen lying in a woody glade as he breathes his last. Madero declared the gamekeeper was his father and nobody had any right to exhibit him there that way. The attendants tried to persuade him that it was an entirely imaginative gamekeeper anyhow, but Madero shouted, "That's my father! I know every line of his face. The statue lies. My old man wasn't shot at all. He fell out of tree. I was with him the day he got killed. His foot slipped. If anybody shot him, who was it? That's what I want to know. This is a piece of capitalist propaganda. They're trying to hang something on my old dad."

It was vain that he was assured it wasn't his father and that if it had been, being shot by a poacher in discharge of one's duty is an entirely respectable and praiseworthy way to die. It was the poacher who might object if he had been misrepresented. Madero refused to be assuaged. He hurled figures of Mary Queen of Scots and Napoleon Bonaparte ruthlessly about until the police took him firmly away.

COLORADO WOMAN FIGHTS VIVISECTION.

Denver, Colo.—Colorado's animals will breathe easier and enjoy more freedom if Mrs. Lenora L. Hall, attaché of the state bureau of child and animal protection, has her way.

Sending representatives into every county of the state to preach against vivisection, Mrs. Hall hopes to so enlighten the public that by the time the next legislature is convening enough pressure can be brought to bear to insure the passage of a law making vivisection illegal in Colorado.

"If the public can be informed between now and the next general election as to what vivisection really is and means," said Mrs. Hall, "I believe an anti vivisection bill will be carried ten to one."

Mrs. Hall is thoroughly equipped with medical opinion in support of her movement.

BLUE LAWS FIND BACKING AMONG JAPS

Tokyo Chamber of Commerce Urges Sunday Closing; Buddhist Priests Seek to Popularize Bell.

New York.—Blue laws are having their powerful exponents in Japan as well as in the United States, according to information received by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions at the board's headquarters, 156 Fifth avenue, New York City. Advances received by the board urge that the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce has formally put itself on record by the adoption of a resolution favoring the closing of all shops on Sunday. Heretofore Sunday has been, as a rule, wide open.

Following this action, a commission began study not only of the Sunday problem, but also of plans for improving the hours of labor through the week. The project calls for a weekly rest day, shorter hours and more considerate treatment of employees. This commission designs to provide a weekly rest day for all employees except in hotels, eating houses and public baths, and also that working hours shall be restricted to 9½ a day, with eight hours only for young persons employed.

Another important piece of news reported from Japan to the Presbyterian board is the tendency of the priests of every denomination of Buddhism to popularize the Buddhist belief by participation in every sort of social service which up to this time has been neglected by them. As a result a fair of sociology has been established at the Jodo Sect college at Sugamo, at Setagaya and at Osaka, where every scheme and measure of social service is to be investigated. A social service bureau has also been established where relief work, special missionary work and other forms will be undertaken. The new temple of Zojoji, now under construction, will be the headquarters on its completion in 1924 and a special organization for social services will be formed by the priests of the Jodo sect, where funerals will be conducted for poor families free of charge.

Prayers for the peace of the spirits of the fowls killed for the tables of Tokyo resident will be offered by 300 poultry dealers of Tokyo at the Hachiman shrine in Tomisaka-cho, Fukagawa-ku, twice a year hereafter. Before this ceremony has taken place annually on September 20.

In China it is the custom to drink wines hot. The thrif Chinese believe that heated wine intoxicates more expeditiously than cold wine.

Mason County Farmers Invited to Hear Experts From Experiment Station On Co-Operative Shipping Tuesday Afternoon.

Mason county farmers are invited to attend a public meeting to be held at the county court house Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at which time Mr.
Morgan Hughes, one of the best farm experts in the state, together with Messrs. Carlton Ball and Julian Adair, of the Bourbon county Farm Bureau,
will speak.

Mr. Hughes is especially interested in the Co-Operative Shipping organizations being perfected over the state. It will be remembered that Mason county farmers recently discussed this plan and several have adopted it. These farmers and others who have not yet become interested in co-operative shipping, should hear Mr. Hughes.

The Bourbon county gentlemen are especially interested in the co-operative purchasing of coal. They have made quite a success of the plan in Bourbon county and are now explaining the system to the farmers in other parts of the state.

Bryan Greenlee, proprietor grocery store, 234 West Third street, says:

"About two years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and I suffered a lot from backache. There was a deep seated pain across the center of my back. I was repairing machinery at that time and when doing any kind of stooping work I could hardly straighten up. My kidneys were not acting regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder. I went to Wood & Son's Drug Store and got a box of Dr. Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. They fixed me up in good shape and I have never been bothered since."
